

Contents

[1]

Introduction

I

[2]

For

J. D. McClatchy

6

[3]

He Dares Say

David Bromwich

7

READING EARLY MODERN POETRY AND DRAMA

[4]

"A Goddess Among the Gods": Virgil, Milton, and the Woman of Immortal Voice

John Watkins

11

[5]

When to Stop Reading The Faerie Queene

Jeff Dolven

35

[6]

Satire and Epyllion: Hermaphroditic Forms

Matthew Greenfield

55

[7]

The Bible, Coriolanus, and Shakespeare's Modes of Allusion
Hannibal Hamlin

73

[8]

Timing Redemption in the Early Modern Devotional Lyric
John Rogers

92

VALUES, TEXTUALITY, AND MODERN POETRY

[9]

Tennyson and the Rapture of "Tithonus"
Cornelia D. J. Pearsall

104

[10]

Audible Ecphrasis: Songs in Nineteenth-Century Fiction
Jennifer Lewin

122

[11]

"Reason Also Is Choice": Reflection, Freedom,
and the Euthyphro Problem
John Burt

147

[12]

Contamination and/of "Resistance"
David Greetham

189

[13]

Music Is Thinking, Then, Sound: An Aesthetic Exercise
Joan Richardson

206

[14]

Aesthetic Value and Literary Language: Bishop and de Man
Lee Edelman

222

THE WORK OF JOHN HOLLANDER

[15]

John Hollander's Spectral Emanations:
The White Light of Truth
David Mikics

232

[16]

John Hollander's Game of Patience
Kenneth Gross

247

[17]

Self-Knowledge and Self-Deception
David Bromwich

268

[18]

"Dallying Nicely with Words": Auguries of Electronic
Poetry in a Handful of Essays by "Cupcake"
Steven Meyer

276

[19]

A Well-Tuned Life: Reflections on an Academic Career
Elise Bickford Jorgens

291

[20]

In Translation
Stephen Cushman

302

[21]

Telling Tales Out of School: John Hollander's
Faith of Profession

Aidan Wasley

303

Bibliography of John Hollander

321

Biographical Notes

325

Index

327